Cawley Eyes Problems after Consolidation

"We're looking for a new dimension of examination," commented Borough Mayor Robert W. Cawley this week, in a conversation about the Borough-Township consolidation study just getting under way.

"The human side has very great importance. So does our ability to plan with neighboring governments—can we do it better consolidated, or not?"

"And I think one of the real issues—nor necessarily related to consolidation at all—is what kind of municipal government we should have."

The ten members of the consolidation study group—five from the Borough, five from the Township—will get together for the first time this Thursday, look each other over to see what kind of creature really does live across that municipal line, then sit down and decide how they want to proceed.

This first meeting won't be public. But after a while, the home-owners and renters and citizens will not only be invited, but insistently urged, to come and "give us your ideas."

Your Life. "Consolidation interacts with every aspect of life in this community," the Borough mayor emphasized. "Closeness and accessibility of government to the individual—very important. Most of my mail is from people concerned about pretty mundane things: getting a pavement fixed, setting up a basketball court in a playground,—you know. We want to be sure these individual things remain."

Linked to this question of individual concern, is how to maintain a population mix—by age, occupation, race and income.

"This is important, because in the Borough, one issue will be worry about losing identity under consolidation. We would like to stem this trend in Princeton toward a middle-aged, professional, high-income community."

Then there's the Central Business District, the CBD. Many people, including present Borough officials, feel the CBD should be kept in check, within its boundaries. But this could change.

Expertise. In a larger Princeton, the mayor points out, people could benefit from need people running the governmental specialists, from people in key positions who have professional training.

MAYOR DISCUSSES CONSOLIDATION: Borough Mayor Robert W. Cawley thinks the new consolidation study has more to examine than the sole question of merging Borough and Township governments.

"You take the two administrators—Bob Mooney in the Borough, and Joe Nini in the Township," the mayor says. "They handle budgets, personnel, purchasing, overall administration—all these combined in one person!"

In a larger government, you could have a generalist at the top, with specialists handling purchasing, or planning.

The mayor shakes his head. "In the Borough, we haven't even been able to afford a traffic officer in our police department—they have one in the Township." Borough police do, however, have a larger detective bureau than the Township.

What Kind? "The form of government we've got is a problem that would have surfaced before this except for the consolidation issue," the mayor believes, "and it's something we must face." What should it be? City manager, like East Windsor and Lawrence? Strong-mayor, like Trenton?

"No, not city manager," the mayor shakes his head. "You get a competent professional in that job, and soon he moves out, people could benefit from need people running the government who KNOW the town. People who are sensitive, and have been around and know the ground. With a strong-mayor form, you get someone who is accessible to the people, sensitive."

Taxes, the issue that's had the most study in recent years, are tricky things to work with, the mayor concedes. Events can change the picture even while it's being studied, and the mayor cites Queenston Common, "the first real addition to rateables the Borough has had in many years." And the big one: the extent to which the state will get into school financing.

(The defeat of Senator William Schluter means that nobody is quite certain about the fate of his bill. He had developed a safe-harmless structure which would allow the state to make up the difference if there were tax discrepancies between consolidated towns.)

Tidy? No. "We have a lot of decision-making inefficiency," the mayor says, sadly. "For example—take the Recreation Board's plans to develop the north side of Route 206. Well, Township Committee was enthusiastic, Borough Council wasn't."

"You take boards with overlapping interests: the Environmental Commission, the Planning Board and the Sewer Operating Committee. You could really get rid of a lot of advisory boards." Make a 'department' part of an administrative organization. 'Recreation' could become like the 'Engineer's office, for example."

"Or, take a really wild idea—two governing bodies, with services consolidated—really wild!"

What the mayor is leading up to is this—a third recommendation, quite apart from a "yes" or "no" on consolidation.

"A key element in my thinking," he explains, "is that a 'No' recommendation ought to be supported by evidence and by recommendations for changes in government and better ways we can operate jointly."

Maybe, the mayor suggests, agencies could be divided: the library to the Borough, recreation to the Township. At present, for example the Borough makes decisions regarding the Fire Department, the Township only joins where capital expenditures are concerned.

"It wouldn't be fair to either Borough or Township not to make a definitive decision," the mayor concludes, "even if the recommendation is to study the question again in several years, continue on the present—and re-organize!"

Encounter Groups

selfish premise." Participants were urged to say: "I am here at this group to gather as many good things as possible for myself, while at the same time considering the feelings of others."

Another group, meeting at the Kingston Presbyterian Church and calling itself COME, the Committee of Miserable Egos, has a goal completely the opposite that of Mrs. Blank's group. "We try to surrender our egos to a higher power—call it God," says Hal, one participant. "Our people have all sorts of problems—fear, frustrations, marital troubles, alcoholism. We don't shout, holler or touch one another. We just get to like these people."

Gestalt-encounter is the method employed in the groups led by Sheila Morgan of Lawrenceville. "Gestalt is a German word meaning whole," she says. "It's a form of awareness training. We try to understand the process of decision-making so that people know what stops them from making certain decisions."

Encounter groups of any breed may be classified in one of several categories. They may be therapy groups or non-therapy. Therapy groups are those run by professionals for persons with serious emotional problems. Non-therapy groups are those intended for people who seek to grow as individuals or discuss certain problems they are likely to share with others in the group.

Attack or Safe. Groups may be led by one person or be

The Negative View: 'Too Stilted, Too Unnatural'

A University secretary in her mid-20s joined a women's rap group meeting once a week in Princeton. The experience has been less than satisfying.

"When we first started, it was just a free for all," she says. "Some women dominated the discussions. The passive ones wouldn't say a word. Now we have a structure—we choose a topic each week and everyone speaks in turn for five minutes apiece. But this has leaderless. Those without leaders, however, are likely to be dominated by certain members.

Also, groups may be 'attacking' groups, or 'safe' groups. In the first type, an individual's statement, or the individual himself, may be questioned or criticized by others, and the individual must defend his position. In the safe group, anyone 'attacking' finds that the group turns the question back to him: What caused him to ask such a question?

If groups have anything in common, it may be that they are filling a common vacuum in society. "This is an age when the individual can't seem to do anything," says

Morgan. "You have big business, a crooked government, and the people feel powerless. There's a tremendous need for a group cheaper. A social worker in private practice would charge about $25 for an individual one-hour session. The leader of a group, either a social worker, psychologist or an individual trained at a growth center such as Esalen, usually charges $8-10 per person for each two-hour session.

Rap groups or leaderless consciousness-raising groups, such as those sponsored by the Woman's Place, are free. Structure Vital. The Woman's Place, N.O.W. chapter in Princeton, worked for several years before it devised a satisfactory structure for its groups. "I was concerned about the fatality rate of the groups I had helped form," says Peg Beach, one of the organizers. "In the first group I was in, I felt as though I were in competition, that I was being judged, and that I should shape up. It was just women acting the way they've been taught: to compete with one another, not to trust each other."

"I'm not sure what the point of our group is. A lot of us just can't relate to the others."

to which you can relate." Today's highly mobile society has led to a great quest for these group situations," says Dr. Blank. "A community like Princeton, with its college-age population, creates conditions very conducive to the formation of groups."

Cheaper by the Group. Group encounters have certain advantages over personal encounters, says Liane Werts, a Princeton social worker and leader of a group for 'creative relationships for single people.' "People learn from each other in a group," she says. "You get more feedback and sometimes a more honest impression of yourself than you would from a single therapist. You see what you do that turns people on, and also what turns them off."

Group sessions are also cheaper. A social worker in private practice would charge about $25 for an individual one-hour session. The leader of a group, either a social worker, psychologist or an individual trained at a growth center such as Esalen, usually charges $8-10 per person for each two-hour session.

Rap groups or leaderless consciousness-raising groups, such as those sponsored by the Woman's Place, are free.

It was just women acting the way they've been taught: to compete with one another, not to trust each other."

A Caveat. The Woman's Place now sponsors five such consciousness-raising groups in operation. Another group for men is being formed.

The proponents of encounter groups—therapy and non-therapy—voice one common warning: While a non-therapy group may be therapeutic to its participants it is not a substitute for professional therapy.

"There are many people who are looking for something, are desperate for help, but are not aware of it," says Dr. Blank. "A group could be very traumatic for person is uncomfortable in one of our groups it may be because the person needs professional therapy. For that, a trained leader is necessary."

Mrs. Beach declares: "If a person is uncomfortable in one of our groups it may be because the person needs professional therapy. For that, a trained leader is necessary."

On The Plus Side: 'Meetings Gave Me Reassurance'

A Kendall Park woman in her 40s, with five school-age children, was forced to take a part-time job when she and her husband separated. She felt guilty, however, about the time she spent away from her children and consequently devoted the rest of her days to them. A year ago she began meeting in Mrs. Bernice Blank's "selfish premise" interaction group.

"The meetings gave me reassurance that what was good for me was not something I had to feel guilty about," says Mrs. Frances Sinicropi. "Each week we discussed something we had always wanted to do for ourselves. All the others in the group were married women with children, and we all learned that we could tear ourselves away from our families to do things for ourselves."

Mrs. Sinicropi now has a full-time and more satisfying job. Several other women in the group went to Nevada by themselves for a vacation—something they always had wanted to do. "I still sometimes feel I'm not doing enough for my children," says Mrs. Sinicropi, "but at least now I am aware of my feelings. Before the group, I could never have even talked about this."

University to Close Dormitories during Holidays

As the effects of the energy crisis reach closer to home, Princeton University has decided to close all its undergraduate dormitories from December 21 through January 5, and cut their temperatures to 40 degrees, in an effort to save fuel.

What the impact of this will be on the University's 4,000 undergraduates is not yet certain. The last day of classes before the Christmas vacation is Wednesday, December 12, and the Reading Period is scheduled to begin Monday, January 7. However, Princeton officials expect that some undergraduates, for a variety of reasons, will need to stay in Princeton for all or part of the period that the dorms are closed.

To accommodate these students, the University is trying to arrange for space in the homes of faculty and staff members, the Infirmary, the Graduate College dormitories, which will not be closed, Caldwell Field House and Jadwin Gymnasium. Some of the arrangements may be Army-barracks style, especially in the latter two facilities.

How much fuel will be saved by closing the dormitories is another unknown factor. "It depends on what kind of weather we have," said William D. Jones, Director of Physical Plant. "If we have this kind of weather, the saving will not be much at all. If it's cold, on the other hand, we'll save a considerable amount of oil."

Whatever the saving, the University believes the measure will enable it to argue more effectively against a strict fuel oil allocation based on last year's usage, which was relatively small since Princeton burned natural gas through much of the winter.

Rigorous Measures. President William G. Bowen has said that the University "will be in a much better position to ask for a fair fuel allocation which will allow us to continue operating if we can demonstrate that we have taken rigorous measures to reduce our consumption."

Students were notified at the beginning of this week of the dormitory closing and were given until Tuesday of next week to apply for alternate space being provided by the University.

"It's too early to tell for sure, but I would estimate that 300 to 400 students will need to stay over," said Mrs. Judy DiMattia, Director of Student Housing.

Reasons for staying on or near the campus range from using the facilities of Firestone Library, which will maintain its normal hours; work commitments, student teaching positions in area schools, and financial restraints prohibiting some students from traveling home.

Serious Students. "We expect that the students wishing to remain in Princeton will be used to allocate the space, which will be assigned on Friday of next week.

The University expects to be able to house all students, Mrs. DiMattia said, although some accommodations may be more Spartan than the traditional Gothic.

People in town with extra space who would like to make it available to an undergraduate should contact Mrs. Elizabeth Ranney of the Student Housing Office at 452-3460, from 9 to 5, and at 737-0619 after 6.

DEBATE ISSUES ERUPT Innis vs. Shockley. A controversy of major proportion is brewing over the scheduled debate here between Roy Innis, Director of the Congress of Racial Equality, and William B. Shockley, Professor of Physics and Nobel Laureate at Stanford University.

The two are scheduled to take the platform Tuesday at 8 p.m. in Alexander Hall on the University campus. The topic is Mr. Shockley's theory of race and intelligence, which asserts that heredity more than environment accounts for the differences in achievement between blacks and whites.

Minority students and faculty members at Princeton have launched a campaign to cancel the debate, which is being sponsored by Whig-Clio, the undergraduate political society. Whig-Clio officers have expressed their determination to hold the debate, but they are concerned that some students may try to disrupt the event.

If that happens, the Innis-Shockley debate could turn into an intellectual and emotional brouhaha on the magnitude of the Hickel heckling incident of three years ago, when a group of students disrupted a speech by former Interior Secretary

Walter J. Hickel.

After much argument over the disruption itself and how the hecklers should be punished, the University issued guidelines to ensure that freedom of speech would be maintained on the campus.

Hot Topic. The news, editorial and even advertising pages of the Daily Princetonian, the student newspaper, already are teeming with statements on the subject. President Bowen said the University would do its "level best to see that people who want to hear this discussion are able to do so. Sociology Professor Marvin Bressler, moderator of the debate, wrote that "the university is pre-eminently a place where controversial ideas can and should be examined."

Opponents of Mr. Shockley stated their position in a full-page ad. "Genetic racial inferiority is not debatable. Entertaining debate on the question lends credence to social policies that range from abridgement of civil liberties to genocide," the ad said. "Princeton University's decision to allow the debate to go on functions to legitimize fascism as a method of repression reminiscent of the role of academicians in Nazi Germany," it said.

Neither Qualified? Critics of Mr. Shockley point out that his academic training in physics makes him in no way qualified to address the question of racial inheritance of intelligence. Critics of this debate argue that Mr. Innis is no more qualified to discuss the topic.

Mr. Bressler believes that no one is qualified to make a definite statement on the subject. "I do not believe that the available evidence can sustain any hypothesis of genetically determined racial inferiority," he wrote.

"Indeed, there is no very effective way to study this issue at all unless all races and social classes enjoy genuine equality of opportunity in education, employment, housing, medical care, etc.," he continued.

Lewon J. Kamin, Chairman of the Princeton Psychology Department, urges that the University allow Mr. Shockley

It's been gray, but it's been mild for late November, and the month which began by running well below normal on the thermometer will finish with a plus sign. (Which, the Man observed in a sad aside, is more than you can say for the market these days.)

Colder weather is on the way, however, with a dip to the high 30s likely by Thursday night. That will bring a return to partially sunny skies, which are expected to last through the weekend.

to speak, but that no one attend the debate. He urged Princetonians to "not accord any seriousness to Shockley's sideshow."

That no one will show up Tuesday night is an unlikely possibility. Last week 1,000 persons gathered to hear Mr. Shockley speak at Staten Island Community College. A small band of hecklers prevented him from doing so.

RULING CHALLENGED

By Zoning Applicant. A ruling by Borough Zoning officer Donald Harney will be challenged Thursday by Blimpie Base, Inc. of Newark, which wants to install a standup food and drink counter at 25 Witherspoon Street.

At the Borough Zoning meeting at 8:15 in Borough Hall, the applicant will ask for a reversal of Mr. Harney's ruling which stated the chain had to provide seven off-street parking places for its planned Witherspoon Street luncheonette—formerly occupied by The Fabric Center.

According to a spokesman for the zoning department, customers can either buy sandwiches and drink to take out or go over to another 67-foot long standup counter and eat on the premises. Mr. Harney ruled that the applicant had to provide parking for the standup eating counter. The formula: one parking place for every five people, 33 people (one for every two feet of counter space) or seven spaces.

However, the standard used by the Borough zoning code to determine parking for eating establishments is based on the number of seats. Because the proposed Blimpie Base has no seats, the applicant maintains he does not have to provide any parking.

If the applicant receives a favorable ruling from the board, it can move right in, since it needs no other relief from the board. It will sell sandwiches, soft drinks, ice cream and contain a deli case.

Pool Variances Sought. In a second application to be heard by the board, Dr. Valentine Dedulin needs bulk variance to locate a proposed 19 by 40-foot pool on his home property at 56 Robert Road.

The zoning ordinance requires any inground pool to be placed at least 20 feet from any lot line. Dr. Dedulin proposes to locate his pool within 10 feet of a rear line and 15 from a sideline. To comply, he wrote in his application, would mean destroying a century-old tree and creating a hazardous condition concerning entrance and exit lanes.

RENT CAN GO UP

By 8.3 Percent. Borough tenants with one-year leases that fall due January 1, may have a rent increase of 8.3 percent. The Consumer Price Index for October was 139.4. This is an increase of 8.3 percent over the 12-month period preceeding.

The formula for rent increases was established in the new rent-levelling ordinance passed this year by Borough Council. Inquiries may be directed to Mrs. Jane Kerney.

Officials Hope So. Mercer County Civil Defense officials met Tuesday with municipal officers to talk about the energy crisis and what to do in case of emergencies.

No Ball in Jadwin: Byrne Trips on Tax

Governor-elect Brendan T. Byrne, a member of Princeton University's Class of 1949, thought that the modern Jadwin Gymnasium on his alma mater's campus would be a perfect site for his inaugural ball.

"Brendan thought it would be a sensational idea because he had graduated from Princeton and has a fondness for it," a Byrne aide told a reporter.

Also, the gymnasium would provide a more amenable environment than the Trenton Armory, the traditional site of the ball, and it would cost less to decorate the gym than the armory. And one of the purposes of the inaugural ball is to raise funds to pay off the Democrats' campaign debts.

That, however, proved to be the idea's undoing. The University did not want to jeopardize the tax-exempt status of Jadwin by allowing it to be used to raise funds for partisan political purposes.

Nor, of course, did it want to jeopardize its relations with a loyal alumnus and the Governor-elect.

Not Unsympathetic. "We want the Governor to understand that his alma mater of all places is not unsympathetic," said the University's financial vice-president, Paul B. Firstenberg, delicately. "We recognize that the inaugural ball is part of a state occasion."

However, Mr. Firstenberg added, even though the Democrats would contribute a portion of the funds to the Princeton community, the tax question would not be erased unless all money went to charitable benefits. That criterion already is used to determine events in the current Jadwin Benefit Series.

"We would like to be as much help as we can to the Governor-elect," said Mr. Firstenberg, still delicately.

LIQUOR DRIVER TARGET

Of "Set-up". An 18-year-old driver for the Wine and Game Shop, 6 Nassau Street, was assaulted and robbed Monday night in what Chief Michael Carnevale termed "an obvious set-up."

The driver, who police declined to identify, was treated at Princeton Medical Center for facial lacerations and abrasions. He was struck on the head, knocked unconscious and beaten about the face," Chief Carnevale said. He added police have a description of the two attackers.

According to police, the store received a call to make a delivery to a Berrien Court address. When the driver arrived around 8:30, the occupant informed him he had placed no such order. As he returned to his truck, the driver told police that he was confronted by two men and the next thing he could recall was losing consciousness.

His assailants stole a couple of gallons of liquors, police said, and some cash. Chief Carnevale said that the exact amount had not been determined but it was under $100.

Police were notified of the incident by a call at 8:51 from an employee at the Wine and Game reporting their driver had just been seriously assaulted. Ptl. Ronald Holliday and Ptl. Robert Mucciarelli responded, assisted by Det. Timothy Huizing, who is continuing the investigation.

REFERENDUM

In West Windsor-Plainsboro. In a special referendum scheduled for January 10, voters in West Windsor and Plainsboro will pass on a $989,000 bond issue to finance renovation of the Dutch Neck School. A public meeting will be held January 3 to present detailed plans and costs.

The West Windsor-Plainsboro Regional School Board proposes to build a kindergarten wing for three classes; a media center; new kitchen and dining rooms, new administrative offices, a classroom for Special Education and six additional standard classrooms.

The additions will enlarge the building to accommodate about 750 students. It now has 445. The plan to alter and expand the school was recommended by a task force of 16 community members, teachers, administrators and school board members.

CYCLIST IS STRUCK

At Hulfish and John. A 14-year old bicyclist, Philip Gregory, 87 Hemlock Circle, received bruises of the hand and knee Friday afternoon when he was struck by a car at the intersection of John and Hulfish Street. He refused medical attention.

Sgt. Robert Anderson, who investigated, made no charges against the driver, Norma V. Sheard of Flemington. According to the police report, Mrs. Sheard was turning onto Hulfish and her vision was blocked by a truck parked to her left. The cyclist came from behind the truck into her path and caught the car's left rear fender. The report said the youth was riding with his face partially down and he did not see the car.

PARKED CARS ENTERED

On University Place. Two cars parked on University Place were entered last week and robbed.

Between 6 and 11 Sunday evening, someone forced a vent window of a car owned by John Ewing of Lambertville and removed an electric drill and other tools with a combined value of $179. Earlier in the week, Dennis Scheil of Princeton Road, Plainsboro, had reported the theft of a $300 35mm camera from his parked small foreign car.

David Compton, 18, 16 Crestview Drive, Hopewell, an employee at the A&P in the Princeton Shopping Center, reported to Township police last week the theft of a camera from his car while it was parked in the center near the store. A vent window had been pried open.

He lost a 35mm camera valued at $104.95 and three rolls of film worth $15.

Office Entered. The office door of the Middlesex-Somerset-Mercer Regional Study Council, 3 Spring Street, was forced open last week by "brute force", according to the caller who notified police of the entry on Friday.

Police said that $34 in petty cash and an undetermined amount in change had been taken from rifled desk drawers.

SILVER, JEWELRY TAKEN

From Township Home. Between 10 and 11:05 Monday morning, someone forced the front door of a home on Rosedale Road and once inside ransacked a bedroom, study and a closet off the living room.

Police are waiting for an inventory from the owners of what was taken but initial reports list silver flatware, two or three watches and jewelry as missing. Police were notified by the owner, who, arriving home, saw that the front door had been pried open. Sgt. Robert Heacock investigated.

FIVE ARE FINED

In Borough Court. Five Princeton area residents were fined Monday by Judge Philip Carchman in Borough traffic

Peter Lindenfeld, 48, 121 Harris Road, and Judith A. Paulovic, 35, Union Street, Kingston, paid $35 and $34 for speeding. A careless driving charge cost Edward A. Karwatske, 24, 190A West Avenue, Hopewell, $15.

Paying fines of $20 each were Joan M. Mitchell, 44, 154 Mercer Street, red light; Fresia Nunez, 40, North Road, improper turn at an intersection; and Harvey O. Hook, 49, 851 Mt. Lucas Road, flashing red light.

In Borough criminal court last week, Judge Carchman fined Gregory Bullock, 23, 102 1/2 Leigh Avenue, $35 for trespassing. In addition, Bullock pleaded guilty to one of two charges of possession of stolen property. He received a 10-day suspended sentence to the Mercer County Jail. The second charge was dismissed.

Richard M. Wall, 20, Cedarville Road, Hightstown, and Stuart Johnson, 19, Princeton Arms, Cranbury, both charged with possession of marijuana, received six months unsupervised probation with Borough court. Eugene Martini, 144 Witherspoon Street, pleaded

COME TO THE SHOW!

Buy Bread and Flowers. Plants and ceramic pots, strawberry jam and wood sculpture, jewelry and home-made bread. Craftsmen who belong to the newly-formed Art Coalition have diversified talents and interests. They will show off--and sell--their wares at an Exhibit and Sale this Saturday and Sunday from 2-7 at 518 Cherry Valley Road.

The Coalition is a group of ten artists and craftsmen from Mercer and Somerset counties. The unlikely juxtaposition of plants and sculpture comes about because members were friends first and founders of the Coalition, second.

In the group are college students, business people and professional artists. They have decided to band together to present their works rather than offer their creations individually in galleries or boutiques.

Members are Till Miller, Anthony Colavita, Jim Colavita, Anne Demarais, Chrys Eckert, Ferdinand Fournies, Karl Kovacs, Geof Steiner-Scott, Judi Slitzer and Joan Wood. This weekend's show is being held in the home of Till Miller.

HOLLY AND IVY

On House Tour. The "Christmas in Princeton" house tour this holiday season will open seven Princeton homes for the benefit of the Association of the New Jersey Neuropsychiatric Institute.

The tour will be next Tuesday from 10 until 4. Tickets, at $7.50 each, may be purchased on the day of the tour at any of the houses or at The Hun School, where Christmas Shops will sell handcrafted articles, decorations, cookies and special gifts made by the patients at N.J.N.P.I.

"Morven," residence of the governors of New Jersey, is the first house listed on the tour although the homes may be visited in any order. Currently the home of Governor and Mrs. William T. Cahill, "Morven" was built in 1701 by Richard Stockton. It contains furniture and decorative objects which have played a role in New Jersey throughout the history of the state.

The residence of Mrs. Philip Yeatman, 72 Library Place, was the home of President Woodrow Wilson. Built in 1836,

"Lowrie House," the official residence of the president of Princeton University, was built in 1845 by Commodore Robert F. Stockton. Its address is 83 Stockton Street. Now the home of President and Mrs. William G. Bowen, "Lowrie House" contains many important paintings on loan from the University. Its architectural details are as impressive as its enormous library.

A two-story music studio called "The Supplement" is in the rear garden of the Lee H. Bristol Jr. home at 210 Mercer. The studio contains a pipe organ, harpsichord and grand piano, plus the desk at which Dr. Bristol's ancestor, Thomas Hastings, composed the hymn tune, "Rock of Ages."

The home of Mr. and Mrs. James M. McKinnon at 6 Haslet, has just been refurbished with great attention to interior architectural detail. The 1925 Georgian red brick house now has handpainted Chinese wallpaper in its center hall and a Waterford chandelier in the Directoire dining room.

The Galbreath Drive residence of Mr. and Mrs. Franklin D. Crawford is a new French-style house combining 18th century formality with contemporary technology. A skylit arts-and-crafts corner, a French country kitchen and a living-room furnished with 16th, 17th and 18th century furniture are features of the

MARVEL RESIGNS

As of Dec. 10, William W. Marvel has formally announced his resignation from the Princeton Regional School Board, effective December 10.

He told Tuesday night's board meeting that he and board president Hannah Fox had agreed it would be "more appropriate" to fill his post at the regular February election rather than go for the interim appointment that would have been required if he had resigned earlier. Mr. Marvel is completing six years on the school board and is moving to Philadelphia.

In nostalgic reminiscence, Mr. Marvel reminded audience and board of his 15 years in various public capacities in Princeton, starting with his term as Township Committee's first Democrat in many generations, and continuing through service on library and school board.

He spoke affectionately of Pherson with whom he has many Princetonians as he has worked with over the years: R. Kenneth Fairman, mayor of the Township; Mr. Marvel's tenure on Committee; Henry S. Patterson, mayor of the Borough when the new library building was in progress; Mrs. Nancy Smith, president of the library board at that time; Raymond F. Male, former Borough mayor and once a nominee for the job of Princeton High principal; Mrs. Alice Male, former Borough Council member; William Selden, chairman of the schools' long-range planning committee; Winthrop Pike, school board member, and PHS principals Florence Burke and George Petrillo.

He awarded a "plum" to Superintendent Philip E. McPherson with whom he has frequently been at sharp issue over the years. "Phil has done a very fine job of leadership by his own lights. They sometimes were different from mine, but we must pay tribute to his contribution to the Princeton scene," he said. Turning to Mrs. Fox, Mr. Marvel declared that her "wisdom, stability and integrity have opened a new era of good feelings in Princeton education."

"I have been challenged by—and for the most part have enjoyed—working with the school board," Mr. Marvel said.

SCHOOL TAXES

Up. Withdrawal of West Windsor-Plainsboro students will mean "a substantial revenue loss" to Princeton and consequent increase in school taxes, warned school board member Winthrop Pike Tuesday night.

He's been issuing this warning ever since West Windsor-Plainsboro began phasing out its students out of PHS and phasing them in to West Windsor's own new high school.

"But we hope there will be little or no increase in expenditures," he said, somewhat more cheerfully. He mentioned staff reductions due to a reduced student body.

Mr. Pike gave no dollar figures for the new budget. He said loss of state aid is a "cloudy situation" although he did announce that Princeton will receive $25,000 more with Governor William T. Cahill's authorized release of full Bateman funding.

Energy Crisis. Shortening the school day, starting school at 9:30 in the morning, postponing the opening of school after New Year's—all these and more, are under consideration as energy-saving devices, reported Superintendent Philip E. McPherson. He announced that William Karch will represent the schools on the new Princeton government energy advisory committee.

The board unanimously approved application for Federal Title I money to start a tutoring program. Tutored children will be from Community Park School because Federal regulations require selection from the area with the greatest concentration of families in the aid-to-dependent children program. St. Paul's School will also participate, under a Federal requirement for private school involvement.

ZONING AGENDA

in Township. Mrs. Mary C. Scarlata, 442 Mr. Lucas Road, is scheduled for appearance this Wednesday before the Township Zoning Board requesting a special permit for a home occupation. She plans to do hair-styling at her home.

It was erroneously stated last week that Tavernwood Beauty Manor, 69 Palmer Square, owned by Mrs. Scarlata's husband, Archimede Scarlata, would move to the Mt. Lucas address. Tavernwood will remain at 69 Palmer Square under Mr. Scarlata's direction and ownership. Mrs.

CORRECTION

Town Topics last week incorrectly reported that Bryce Maxwell Jr., 19, 19 McCosh Circle, was in the Princeton Medical Center. Since October 27, when he was involved in an accident in Lawrence Township in which a passenger in his car was killed, he has remained unconscious—in the intensive care unit in Trenton's Helene Fuld Hospital.

Obituaries

ON THE EVE OF RETIREMENT: Dan Coyle and Mrs. Coyle with President Emeritus Robert F. Goheen and Mrs. Goheen at a reception given in his honor when he retired from Princeton in July.

Dan Dunn Coyle, 57, a member of the Princeton University administration since 1946 and a founding editor and publisher of TOWN TOPICS, died November 25 at his home near Centerville, Md. A resident of 11 University Place until last July, he had retired from his University position after serving in various capacities in the Department of Public Information and as an assistant to both Presidents Dodds and Goheen.

Widely recognized as an outstanding journalist, whether as a writer-reporter or in an administrative capacity guiding public relations for his beloved Princeton, Mr. Coyle left indelible monuments to his memory in his chosen field. In addition to playing a large share in the conception and format of TOWN TOPICS, he wrote its widely-read Man of the Week without a break for a quarter-century and originated the annual Christmas Appeal which has since its inception provided more than $85,000 for Princetonians in need.

A member of the Princeton Class of 1938, Mr. Coyle had joined the administrative staff early in 1946 after completing over five years of World War II service with the Army Ground Forces, second lieutenant to major. Assistant Director of Public Information and Director of Sports Information for a decade, he was Assistant to President Dodds in 1956-57 and was named Associate Director of Public Information in 1957.

Two years later he was appointed Assistant to President Goheen, the post he held until assuming his assignment as Director in 1965.

A native of Boston, Mr. Coyle graduated from The Choate School before entering Princeton. As an undergraduate here he was president of his class; of Colonial Club and of the University Press Club.

Was Council President. Elected to Borough Council for successive three-year terms, 1956-61, Mr. Coyle twice served as its president. His Borough assignments included Police Commissioner, chairman of the Council Committee on the Future of Princeton and the Council's representative on several municipal agencies such as the Planning Board.

Among his interests and affiliations were the Princeton Medical Center, the Princeton Unit of Recording for the Blind, the Princeton Democratic Club, the Middlesex-Somerset-Mercer Regional Study Council and Trinity Episcopal Church, of which he was for 10 years a superintendent of the Church School.

He was a chairman of the Friends of the Princeton Public Library, a director and vice-president of the Chamber of Commerce and a former trustee of Choate School. A man of unlimited energy and enthusiasm for everything in which he was involved, he set himself a high standard of excellence that guided his hand in even the most mundane of daily assignments.

Mr. Coyle and his wife, the former Mary E.R. Cowenhoven of Princeton, had begun retirement in the home which once belonged to his father, the late Captain Irwin Coyle '06. In recent years, they had spent many weekends and vacations there. A fortnight ago, he wrote to a friend in Princeton: "Life on the Eastern Shore is delightful and refreshing. The first rain in weeks has just stopped; sunlight is once again streaming through the glistening foliage and Canada Geese by the thousands are honking in anticipation of a night in the neighboring cornfields."

In addition to his wife, he is survived by two daughters, Mrs. G. Patrick Mundy, Jr. of Englewood, and Mrs. Thomas C. Kildebeck of Palo Alto, Calif.; and three grandchildren. A family service was held in Maryland and a memorial service will be held in Princeton at a later date. Contributions may be made to the Princeton University Library, marked for the Alice C. and Irwin D. Coyle 1906 Memorial Book Fund.

Mrs. Roy Dickinson Welch, 80, of 61 Stanworth Lane, a past chairman of the Friends of Music at Princeton University, died November 24 at the Merwick Unit of the Princeton Medical Center.

Mrs. Welch, an Advisory Council Member of the University's Music Department, had also served as Chairman of the Board of Trustees of the Princeton Symphony Orchestra and the University Concerts Committee. She was a life long supporter of the arts.

A resident of both Princeton and Eastville (Martha's Vineyard, Mass.) for nearly 40 years, Mrs. Welch (Sylvia Eastman Spencer) was born in Berne, Switzerland and had been a resident of Northampton, Mass., Buffalo and Canandaigua, N.Y.

A graduate of the Ogontz School, Philadelphia, and the Conservatory of Music in Geneva, Switzerland, Mrs. Welch also studied at Smith College. Her husband, the late Professor Roy Dickinson Welch, had served as chairman of the Music Departments at both Princeton University and Smith College.

A nurse's aide at Fort Dix and Princeton Hospital during World War II, Mrs. Welch also served on the board of the War Relief Committee in Princeton.

She is survived by her daughter, Mrs. George Selby Gordon of Bethesda, Md., her sons, Spencer Welch of Mt. Kisco, N.Y. and Roy Dickinson Welch, Jr. of Barrington, R.I.; and 13 grandchildren. Her daughter, the late Catherine Welch Meredith, died in August of this year.

Private burial is at the convenience of the family. A memorial service will be held at the Princeton University Chapel on December 29 at 4:30 p.m. The family requests that in lieu of flowers, contributions be made to the Friends of Music at Princeton University.

Mrs. Arthur Morton Good, of Rossmoor Village, formerly of 106 Wilson Road, died November 25 in Pago Pago, American Samoa, while on a cruise to the Polynesian Passage. A member of the Audubon Society and the American Wildlife Association, she was an ardent bird lover and an expert on most species.

She was born in New York City, and had the distinction of being the first Golden Eagle Girl Scout in the United States.

She attended Tufts College, Boston, and was a member of the Princeton Historical Society.

She is survived by three brothers, Henry Weed Jones, John Morgan Jones and Paul Stewart Jones of New York; a sister-in-law, Mrs. Stephan Hayden-Guest of Princeton; and several nieces.

A memorial service will be held Saturday at 3 p.m. in the Palmer Square Sanctuary of the Nassau Presbyterian Church, with the Rev. Joseph O. Rand Jr. officiating. Contributions may be made to a favorite charity. Arrangements are under the direction of the Kimble Funeral Home.

Richard B. Judge, 47, of 147 Poe Road, died November 25 in the Princeton Medical Center. He was marketing manager with Caron-Spinning Company of New York for 16 years.

Born in Hoboken, he was a graduate of Duke University, Durham, N.C., with a bachelor's degree in mechanical engineering.

He served in the Navy in World War II. He was a member of the National Knitted Outerwear Association, the Springdale Golf Club and the Nassau Club.

Survivors include his wife, Mrs. Janet Redefor Judge; two sons, Richard Jr. of Rehoboth Beach, Delaware, and J. Stephen at home; his mother, Mrs. Matthew F. Judge of Wilmington, Delaware; one brother, Robert C. of New York; and one sister, Mrs. Walter Gutowski of Cedar Grove.

Mass of Christian Burial was celebrated in St. Paul's Church. Interment was private. Contributions may be made to the Princeton Medical Center. Arrangements were made by Mather Funeral Home.

Innis-Shockley Debate
To the Editor of Town Topics:
In the present climate of concern over the proposed Innis-Shockley debate, the Mercer County Chapter of the ACLU of New Jersey calls upon all members of the Princeton community, however they may feel about this debate or about the wisdom of Whig-Clio's decision to sponsor it, to recognize that the principle of freedom of expression should be respected in this, as in every other, case. This principle holds that no one—no private individual or group any more than a governmental body or university administration—can have the right to intervene to prevent a public discussion of this kind from taking place.
Our commitment to freedom of expression does not rest on a belief that the liberty to speak and be heard will always be used wisely or that free discussion will solve all our problems. It rests rather on the firm belief that to accept the alternative—to grant to any body public or private a right of selective intervention—represents an unworkable policy which we believe ought to be unacceptable to all.
We recognize that there are many for whom the decision to provide a forum for this event represents an affront which they feel they cannot accept in silence. Many members of the ACLU share this feeling and would like to join with other members of the community in publicly expressing their continued commitment to the ideal of equality for all persons and to the struggle against racism and for genuine equality in our community and our country. What must be resisted, however, is the idea that the only appropriate expression of businesses find it this sense of affront or of this economically unfeasible to remain in the CBD, the taxes paid by them, either directly or indirectly, are lost to the Borough. The retail act on it would be to reject and businesses can move out and the buildings remain.

Neighboring cities such as New Brunswick and Trenton thought they could wait. They later built their garages but the shoppers did not return. Be aware of how fragile business is and how changeable the buying habits of people.

FUND DIRECTOR NAMED
At Seminary. The Rev. Donald G. Lewis Jr., a 1971 graduate of the Princeton Theological Seminary, has been named Director of Annual Giving for the Seminary. The appointment, announced by President James I. McCord, is effective January 15.

Since 1970 Mr. Lewis has been assistant pastor of the Toms River Presbyterian Church.

After graduating with honors in philosophy from Millersville State College in Pennsylvania, Mr. Lewis did graduate at Millersville, Franklin and Marshall College and Bucknell University.

He then entered the Theological Seminary and earned a Master of Divinity degree and the Samuel B. Robinson Prize. Studies since then have included work at Seton Hall University and a 1973 Rotary International Fellowship which enabled him to travel to Israel.

Active in community affairs, Mr. Lewis has been area director for Project Concern Inc. and for two years was director of the Ocean County Walk for Mankind. He also was a member of the Board of Trustees of the Ocean County Mental Health Clinic.

Teaching Interests. The new Annual Giving Director has served as a Teaching Church direct the filming. James Supervisor for the Seminary's Litton was the musical field education program and is director.

a member of the Princeton

Symposium.
His wife, the former Judith Ann Slater, is the daughter of All Saints' Church, Princeton, and grand-daughter of Presbyterian ministers. She is members to their Vestry, the an elementary school teacher.

TRINITY OPERA FILMED
For National Broadcast. "The Winter Star," a short Christmas opera by the teacher; Kent Kilbourne, Australian composer, leader of the Junior High Malcolm Williamson, and Fellowship; Herbert Rickert, performed by the four choirs who has served as usher and of Trinity Church, will be member of the Stewardship presented in a nationwide Committee; and Thomas television broadcast Sunday, December 9.

The program can be viewed in this area on WABC-TV, Channel 7, at 1 p.m.

Called "Directions," the network program deals with new directions in church music and will include two other church music groups in addition to the Trinity choirs.

Mr. Williamson himself was present at Trinity Church to December 9 will not be the only opportunity to view "The Winter Star." Adults and children from Trinity are participating in Advent Workshops the first three Sundays of December, to prepare and rehearse for a performance of the opera on December 23.

It will be presented at both the 9:15 and 11 services. The church is requiring no special musical ability for this presentation of the opera. Instead, it is relying on the advice of Mr. Williamson, who has written "polished perfection is less important than abandon and enjoyment" in performing the opera.

VESTRY MEMBERS SET

At All Saints'. Members of All Saints' Church, Princeton, have elected five new members to their Vestry, the church's governing body.

Those elected to three-year terms include Mrs. Martin Flemer III, who has served on the Flower Guild, in the Senior Choir and as a Sunday School teacher; Kent Kilbourne, Australian composer, leader of the Junior High Malcolm Williamson, and Fellowship; Herbert Rickert, performed by the four choirs who has served as usher and of Trinity Church, will be member of the Stewardship presented in a nationwide Committee; and Thomas television broadcast Sunday, December 9.

Also elected was John Graaskamp, an usher and chairman of the Every Member Canvass, who fills an unexpired term that will terminate in 1975.

In other changes, Roy Porterfield was named new Senior Warden. He had served as junior warden during the past year.

A. James Meigs, a layleader and former treasurer of All Saints', was named Junior Warden. His place on the Vestry was taken by Mr. Graaskamp.

FOSTER CARE SUBJECT
Of Quakers' Meeting. The Social Order Committee of the Princeton Friends Meeting will meet Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the Quaker Meetinghouse, Quaker Road off Mercer Street, to discuss the foster parent program and the need for foster parents.

Representatives of the New Jersey Division of Youth and Family Services and foster parents will be present to discuss the theme, "Will You Share Your Home With Me While Mine Is Being Rebuilt?"

Panelists will emphasize the variety of foster arrangements, including single parents as foster parents, insurance coverage for parents, and the use of group training sessions for prospective foster parents. Those interested in becoming foster parents will be invited to question the panelists.

work of more than 40 artists will be included in the show.

Donors and sponsors are invited to attend a champagne party and preview Saturday beginning at 7:30 at the gallery. For further information contact Carol Blatter, 452-2231, or Marlene Horovitz, 924-0826.

EXHIBIT AT HOSPITAL

Opens Sunday. A one-woman showing of water colors and graphics, including etchings, will open at 2 Sunday at Princeton Hospital. Sponsored by The Medical Center and the Princeton Art Association, it will feature works by Princeton artist Elaine Ellerstein.

A public reception for the artist, whose water colors and graphics have been shown in Pennsylvania and New Jersey, will be held from 2 to 4 in the hospital's main lobby. Included in her exhibit will be a selection of etchings and graphics in traditional and rice paper techniques.

Miss Ellerstein, a graduate of Hunter College, New York, studied painting in Rhode Island and water color technique under Leonard Blackman in New York. Her works have been exhibited at the Golden Door Gallery, New Hope, Pa., and at galleries in the Princeton area.

She is a member of the Garden State Water Color Society and The Princeton Art Association. She won first prize in water colors shown at McCarter Theater here several years ago.

All works exhibited in the Princeton Hospital are for sale by the artists.

EXHIBIT TO OPEN

At Youth Center. The Princeton Youth Center will host a reception for the opening of "Unreal Reality," an art exhibit of works by Walter Rapiewicz, on Friday, November 30 at 8 p.m. This exhibit is the second in a continuing series of Art Exhibitions by inmates from New Jersey correctional institutions.

Mr. Rapiewicz is an ex-inmate from the Bordentown facility, where he was involved in an art workshop for two years. He has been painting for more than five years but this is his first one-man show.

Mr. Rapiewicz is a native Trentonian and at the age of 27 plans to attend the Museum School of Art in Philadelphia to continue his art training. While in prison, Mr. Rapiewicz and three other artists completed a 40-foot mural in the dining hall of the Institute.

Mr. Rapiewicz's art work is done in oils and acrylics and is characterized by their colorfulness and definition of form. All of the exhibition pieces will be for sale for $15 and up. The public is invited to the opening; the show will continue through December 14.

SHAHN IS HONORED

At Saturday Benefit. A gala benefit evening, honoring the artist Ben Shahn will be held this Saturday at the New Jersey State Museum in Trenton. The event, open to the public at $25 per person, will help the Friends of the Museum raise enough money for the permanent installation of the Museum's two Shahn mosaic murals outdoors on the grounds of the Museum at the Cultural Center, West State Street. Ticket information may be obtained at 394-5310.

Mrs. W. Park Armstrong Jr. of Princeton, is chairman of the board of the Friends of the New Jersey State Museum.

Mrs. Thomas H. Paine, also of Princeton, is co-chairman of Saturday's benefit with Mrs. Edward A. Ring of Washington Crossing.

The committee for the evening includes Mrs. John Dramer of Princeton, among the hosts are Princeton residents Mr. and Mrs. Walter F. Gips, Mr. and Mrs. R. George Kuser and Mr. and Mrs. Armstrong.

The affair will begin at 7 p.m. with cocktails in the Main Galleries, followed by dinner in the Hall of Cultural History. After the dinner, the Friends of the New Jersey State Museum will hold a champagne reception for members and guests starting at 9 p.m. and continuing until 11 p.m. The $5 charge will also aid the benefit.

The Shahn mosaics, "Tree of Life" and "Atomic Table," are 30 by 6 feet. They were originally created in 1963 for the S.S. Shalom, and were bought by the New Jersey State Museum from the American-Israeli Shipping Company in 1968, the year before the artist's death.

Saturday's guests will preview selections from the Museum's collection of Shahn prints. The exhibit will be open to the public until January 27.

RELEVANT?
Shakespeare. Yes. Daniel Berkowitz, who's directing "Measure for Measure" at Theatre Intime, says Shakespeare's somewhat gritty comedy is "relevant." Not "deadly boring, dreadfully serious social and political drama," he hastens to add, "but it's a play about power, about a man who is above the law, who uses and abuses both the law and the people to get what he wants, and who does it all because it's in the best interests of the people."

(IN DISGUISE): That's the Duke, himself, on the right, disguised, and listening with undisguised interest as Lucio talks about -- the Duke. The actors are Joseph Harbison as Lucio and Robert Schmon as the Duke, both in Shakespeare's "Measure for Measure" at Theatre Intime.

Mr. Berkowitz will present his cast in "Measure for Measure" this Thursday at 8:30 p.m. in Murray Theatre, following with it again Friday and Saturday, and December 6, 7 and 8 all at 8:30 p.m. Robert Schmon, Princeton senior, will play Duke Vincentio, "the great manipulator." (Mr. Schmon was in "As You Like It," "The Hostage" and "Jacques Brel".)

Eric Zwemmer and Aliza Matlovsky will play Angelo and Isabella and Joseph Harbison, William Bowman, James Horton, Imee Marcoe, Mitchell Ivers, Mark Nelson and Shirley Kauffman will join them in other parts. Reservations may be made at 452-8181. Tickets are $2 communities, 29 if you count Princeton. Some travel to rehearsals from Levittown, Pennsylvania; North Plainfield and even—New York.

Steve James, who was young Patrick in "Mame" and Perchik in "Fiddler on the Roof" and Curly in "Oklahoma!", will be Billy Bigelow, the carnival barker. Carole Davis, who made her P. J. & B. debut as Marian the Librarian in "The Music Man" will be the leading lady, Julie Jordan.

Ajile Dancers and Bazaar. The Ajile Dance Group of the Princeton Youth Center will offer its first production of the season next weekend in conjunction with a Bazaar featuring African fashion and crafts.

The Hansberry Arts Workshop will present the dancers in a production titled "Du Ewa" - "Black Beauty." The show will be given at 8 p.m. next Friday and Saturday, December 7-8 at the Center. Dance and fashion

Try-out Time
If you want to be Little Red Riding Hood or any of her relatives and associates, the time to try out will be next Tuesday and Wednesday at 7 p.m. and 2 p.m. respectively. Place: the YM-YWCA. Your chances: there are 28 parts.

Some of those roles aren't in "Little Red Riding Hood" but in "The Snow Queen," which is the other half of Street Theatre's double bill. The two plays will be given for audiences of children between February 14 and March 14. (Schools that want to sign up Street Theatre's company should write Debbie Bellow, 36 Stanley Avenue.)

Anyone in seventh grade or above, is eligible to try out. People who would rather work on technical parts of the show, are invited to come at the same hours and sign up.

from black and Latin countries will be featured.

At the Ajile Bazaar next Saturday, December 8, soul and Latin food will be sold and the House of Black Pearl will have crafts and African objects for display and for sale.

At the Bazaar will be booths where customers may have ear and nose piercing. Experts will demonstrate the wrapping of African dress and head-gear.

Dance classes in black and Latin dances will be free of charge. The Shani dancers and special guest performers from Trenton will perform.

CHRISTMAS MEANS...

"The Nutcracker!" Yes, Christmas-time in Princeton means a return engagement of the Princeton Ballet Society's traditional production of Tchaikovsky's "The Nutcracker," presented in conjunction with McCarter Theatre.

It will be given three times this year, starting Saturday, December 15 with a matinee, and continuing Saturday at 7:30 and Sunday at matinee-time, also.

This season's production will be the 10th anniversary for the Ballet Society's "Nutcracker." It bowed to Princeton audiences in December, 1964 and has never once had a single empty seat for any of the 27 performances since that time.

"The Nutcracker" will be given in its complete two-act version. The familiar Tchaikovsky score accompanies the "divertissements" in Act II, with the Sugar-Plum Fairy and all the rest.

Audree Estey and Lila Brunner have done the choreography. Stephen Hendrickson's original scenery and decor will again be used.

IN GREEK

"Medea." The "Medea" of Euripides will be staged in Greek by Melpomene, the Greek Drama Society of Princeton University, in a production in Alexander Hall December 7 and 8 at 8:30 p.m. Students may attend a matinee Wednesday, December 12.

"Medea" will be directed by Maria Mitchell, a classics student who is writing her senior thesis on Brecht and Euripides. She has studied classical theatre in Greece on Scholarship, and served this summer as executive producer for Summer Intime.

The production will have an original score by Frank Brickie, a graduate student in composition, who has composed music for flutes and percussion using rhythms reminiscent of Arabic folksongs, Gregorian chants and Hebrew anthems.

Leith Symington, a freshman at the University, has choreographed, and students in the University's creative arts program have molded, cast and painted the 19 masks required by the production.

Melpomene has sponsored Greek drama in translation through Theatre Intime, but the "Medea" is the first time the campus has had a play presented in classic Greek.

LAST POP

This Friday. The Mahavishnu Orchestra with John McLaughlin and Chick Corea will bring McCarter's fall pop season to a close this Friday with an 8 p.m. jazz-rock concert in Dillon Gym. Tickets will go on sale starting at 6 p.m. at the gym.

Making its final college concert appearance of the season, Mahavishnu has only two more concerts scheduled - in Lincoln Center - before next summer. The groups' original membership is still around: Billy Cobham, Jerry Goodman, Jan Hammer and Rich Laird.

Chick Corea, on keyboards, has played with such experts as Miles Davis, Mongo Santamaris, Herbie Mann and Stan Getz. His band, "Return to Forever," includes Bill Connors on guitar, Stanley Clarke on bass and Lenny White on drums.

DRAMA AT STUART DAY

About a Kind Witch, the Middle School Drama Club of Stuart Country Day School of the Sacred Heart will present Carol Lynn Wright's "Pegora the Witch" on Wednesday, December 5, at 8 p.m.

The play centers on the activities of Pegora, an apprentice witch. She is given one last chance to overcome a flaw in her character—that of being kind.

The cast includes Julie Miller as Pegora; Francesca DiBianco as the Head Witch; Valerie Lucarella, the Jester; Leslie Johnson, a princess; and Amy Hill, Michelle Jeremy. A disappointing young-love story heavy on atmosphere and weak on characterization in which two teenagers in New York slowly fall for each other and discover the road to romance is often a rocky one.

'Jeremy' proves that a simple, unadulterated love story is one of the hardest pictures to make these days. The film wants to celebrate the awakening of love, record the slow surrender to love, rejoice in the sweetness of discovered love and sigh a bit over the pain a la Romeo and Juliet but it doesn't work out that way.

Primarily, because, although Jeremy is interesting—he plays the cello and the horns—and his young love is as pretty as she is sweet, the resultant love never catches fire, never assumes such an importance that we want to continue to watch what happens next.

Robby Benson and Glynis O'Connor as the young lovers are attractive but not inspiring. They generate interest and amusement, yes, but unfortunately, not too much love. Once they get together the film has no place to go.

PLAYHOUSE

Billy Jack. An Indian Kung Fu that combines humor, gore, sex and adds the necessary defeat of the bad guys to produce a standard, but entertaining melodrama. Billy Jack is a half breed who is blamed for everything that goes wrong. He likes the girl who runs the free school outside of town. The town is under the influence of a bully who shoots horses for fun and sells them to a dog food factory. The townspeople hate the school and the teachers hate the town. Thus, the lines are drawn for a western soap opera that includes rape and murder. (The film is nonetheless PG).

In the end, Billy Jack is holed up in a church with the daughter of the deputy sheriff—an all-American bigot who hates Indians. A doctor and the sheriff finally talk Billy into giving himself up—but only after Billy makes sure the town will support the school for 20 years, his girl will remain as director and also be named legal guardian of the deputy's daughter, thereby tying up all the loose ends. John Wayne couldn't have done better.

PRINCE

The Way We Were is a period piece that covers the mid '30's through the early '50's with a socko performance by Barbra Streisand and by Robert Redford for the ladies. When Barbra is on the screen the film comes alive. Her talent, huge already, Hoffman, Bacharach Here Dustin Hoffman, the actor, and Burt Bacharach, singer-composer, will participate on the court in the Jadwin Tennis Jam-boree Saturday at Jadwin Gym on the University campus.

Both highly regarded players in their own right, they participated in the Robert F. Kennedy Pro-Celebrity Tournament earlier this year at Forest Hills. Joining Hoffman and Bacharach in the Jam-boree are tennis standouts Arthur Ashe, Bob Lutz, Roscoe Tanner, Gene Scott and Princeton's own Margie Gengler and Herb Fitzgibbon.

Tickets—$5 adults, $1 students—are available at the Youth Tennis Foundation, 71 University Place, Jadwin Ticket office and the Mercer County Indoor Tennis Center. Tickets will also be available at the door.

seems to grow with every succeeding role.

The early period scenes are funny and evocative. Miss Streisand, determined, humorless, political activist and supporter of good causes, meets Redford in college in the mid '30's. Redford is the top campus athlete, blond talented and has a roadster. Barbra calls him "America the Beautiful."

The movie, adopted from a novel by Arthur Laurents, falters when it follows the couple, now married, to post-war Hollywood. Redford, a talented writer, has sold out for commercial but second-rate success. Continuing to fight fascism, Barbra becomes a target of a House Un-American Activities Committee's investigation.

As a result, "The Way We Were" is one of the few films to exploit the Red scare of the early 50's engineered by Joe McCarthy, but as a plot device it doesn't come off. In short, the first half of the film has some historical and nostalgic value but the latter part is a sellout.

Mr. Sheinkman, a composer, conductor, pianist and teacher is currently professor of humanities at CUNY (Staten Island). This year the Orchestra is composed solely of undergraduate and graduate students and they have been augmented by a large group of gifted freshmen.

Weather permitting, the Quintet will do caroling on campus following the concert and the audience is invited to join in the singing. The concert is free and open to the public.

TEMPLE GROUP LISTED
In Concert Series. Temple University's Gallery Wind Quartet will perform works by Milhaud, Vivaldi, Hindemith and Sweelinck in the third Trinity-All Saints' Concert, Sunday at 8 p.m. in Trinity Church, 33 Mercer Street. He is a former member of both the Columbus Boychoir and the Trinity Choir of Men and Boys.

FINE MUSIC STRESSED
By New Organization. Young Audiences, a national organization of professional music groups and soloists, has formed a Central New Jersey Chapter, headquartered in Princeton, aimed at exposing area students to a broad range of musical experience.

The new chapter was conceived by Randolph Haviland, a member of the Millstone Trio, and Mrs. Herbert Ruben, president of the Board of Directors. The group has scheduled concerts, December 13 at the Constable School in Kendall Park, December 14 in Roosevelt, January 8 at the Whittier School in Dunellen; and January 15 at the Faber School in Dunellen. Three concerts, as yet unscheduled, are planned for Princeton area schools.

Young Audience concerts receive matching funds from the Music Performance Trust Fund and from the National Endowment for the Arts. Additional funding is sought from organizations, individuals and businesses to provide programs for the physically handicapped, culturally disadvantaged and the emotionally disturbed. Inquiries regarding concert arrangements or sponsorships may be directed to Mrs. Ruben, 921-7390.

HARPSICORD FEATURED
In 'Messiah' at Rider. A 60-voice chorus will perform Handel's "Messiah" Sunday at 8 p.m. in the Rider College Chapel. The concert will feature the college's new harpsicord, built by Chris Bannister of Hopewell.

The instrument is a manual, eight-foot concert grand, with three choirs of strings, and a buff with pedal-operated stops. Mary Carol Fruscione and Frances Rukin, both Rider students, will play the continuo.

Strings from the Collegium Musicum, directed by Joseph Kovacs, will accompany the performance. Soloists are June Tipton, Kathy Wolters, Don Holmquist and John McClean.

CHORAL EVENTS LISTED
By Westminster College. During the Christmas season, choirs from Westminster Choir College will be busier than ever.

Buying Presents Early? These Tips Should Help

The end of November each year brings forth a display of gold and silver tinsel, green trees, red balls, and holly boughs, and this year is no exception.

Last week the stores on Nassau Street were busy decorating windows and displaying Christmas goodies. Many things are in short supply in this country, but not gift items.

It's time to begin thinking about December 25, and if your lists are not already complete, here are what we hope will be some helpful suggestions.

Why not make this the year for a treasured decoration to be passed on someday to the children? Princeton Gift Shop in Palmer Square has hand-carved and painted carousels that turn with the heat of candles.

One in various wood tones has flying angels with instruments that ring small glass bells as they turn, $55; and another is composed of four tiers, all of which revolve — wise men, the nativity scene, the shepherds and above them all, some angels, $75.

Or, you could start a collection of silver tree ornaments. At LaVake's, 54 Nassau Street, we saw a Reed & Barton silver cross, $10 and, it can double as a pendant after Christmas. Then there is a pierced ball that rings, $12.95; five sleigh bells on a leather strap, $15; and a silver Santa, $5.

IT'S NEW

Make It Yourself. There is still time to surprise someone with a thoughtful hand-made gift. For the tennis enthusiast, The Knitting Shop on Tutane Street has a red tennis cover with a man's sneaker and ball, $18 and Clayton's Yarn Shop, Palmer Square, has one on which you can place your own design, $10. Both are already mounted, and should not require blocking if you use the basketweave stitch.

Other needlepoint suggestions from Clayton's Yarn Shop are an enticing picture of Snoopy and his yellow bird frolicking with the butterfly, $15; or a tray with a needlepointed design under glass. The designs are by Abbie Hershey of Creative Critters and the trays are available in red, green, yellow or walnut, $33.50 for both.

Everyone in

For The Biggest Surprise

She is sure to cherish a favorite photograph reproduced on canvas and ready to be needlepointed, $20 and up. (Knitting Shop)

The gourmet would delight in receiving a jar of boiled and dyed blue or pink quail eggs, $150. (Polly's Candies).

An antique Ethiopian coin and amber necklace would certainly receive many admiring glances, $65. (Silver Shop).

Then the week before Christmas, give the children a Knusperhaus (German cookie house) by Bahlens to create for the table's centerpiece. There are directions, four kinds of cookies, and an edible sugar paste, $9.75. (Bon Appetit) prints, stripes or solids you can quickly turn out the very popular swirl skirt.

An unusual gift for your husband would be a robe in washable plaid polyester. This material comes in a blue, green or red tartan and is $5 a yard for a 56-inch width, (Fabric Shop).

Metallic is the word this season and we saw many pretty fabrics for holiday clothes. Clayton's Main Store has a multi-colored stripe in pastels and gold, $7.50 for a 45-inch width, and The Fabric Center at Montgomery Shopping Center has eyelash fabric which is made of sheared metallic threads in pink, green, or orange, $3.98 and 36 inches wide.

The Fabric Center also has velveteen in many rich-looking deep colors such as green, brown, purple, and several shades of red, $4.98 a yard; and Clayton's Main Store has a red or blue velveteen with a small paisley design and pretty border print making it perfect for an unusual long skirt, $7 a yard. The nimble-fingered lady would also appreciate a fascinating project to work on during the long winter months that follow Christmas. At the Knitting Shop we found a Winter Memory scene featuring bright houses with snow-capped roofs to be worked in a decorator stitch, $9 by Bernat, and at Clayton's Yarn Shop we loved the needlepointed dolls. "Sally" has a pink and white gingham dress with green trim worked in several stitches, $18 for the kit.

It's New to Us

With the energy crisis Allen's at 134 Nassau Street suggests a snug blanket sleeper. They come in many colors and in sizes from infants to 12, $8 and up. An older girl, however, would undoubtedly prefer a pink gingham and flowered sleeping bag that unzips to a full-sized quilt when it comes home from a slumber party, $16 by Her Majesty.

When the presents are unwrapped, it's time to dress the children for dinner at grandmother's. Beginning with the youngest, The Clothesline has a red and white gingham stretch suit with an embroidered mouse, $5.95, or an infants red velveteen jumper with a white lace trimmed blouse, $8.25.

For a knockout look, dress them in brother-sister outfits. Bellows has a beautiful blue velvet jumper and shortall with an attached blue, green, red and white striped blouse by Florence Eiseman, $26 for the dress and $28 for the shortall.

Then at the Children's Hour in the Montgomery Shopping Center we saw a dark green knit dress trimmed in yellow and red, $12, and a matching boy's suit with long pants, $17. All these are available in toddler sizes.

Children's Hour also has some sister dresses, such as a pale blue knit with a ribbed bodice embroidered with tiny red and white flowers, in sizes toddler 2 to girl's 14 beginning at $11.50.

Then for the teenager Bellows has a very pretty soft red crepe dress with a shirred bodice and cuffs, preteen sizes 8-14 and $26; and for the boys in almost any size from 4-14 we liked the sporty black waltz plaid blazer, $24 - $28.

Children, including boys, become clothes conscious at a very early age and here are some thoughts as to what they might like to find under the tree. For the toddler there are navy overalls with a tiny red flower print that have a bib front and blouse trimmed with white eyelet, $18 (Bellows). For girls, 7-14, Allens has a long plaid skirt with yellow or red fringe around the hem, $8, and Bellows has a luscious

CHRISTMAS AT THE CUMMINS SHOP: Shortly before Thanksgiving, the Cummins Shop on Nassau Street closed for a day, and when it re-opened the store had been transformed into a Christmas picture. The tree above with many ornaments and 14 strands of lights took the better part of a day to decorate.

What Would Xmas Be...? Whenever you begin to count family traditions, various national foods end up high on the list, and Bon Appetit at The Princeton Shopping Center can satisfy most any craving. We saw Rococo Plum Pudding, 49 cents to $6.75 for a three pound box; the Niederregger Luebeck German stollen which is considered the best, a pound and a half cake is $5.89; Italian Panettone by Allemagne which is lighter than a stollen, $3.39 to $8.75; and Scottish Highland Shortbread by Jacob's, $2.30 for a 10 ounce box.

Bon Appetit also has a choice of fruit cakes such as the Lady Baltimore one, Thompson's Irish Fruit cake made with whiskey, and the Purdy line of traditional English cakes of Sherry, Guinness and Norfolk Farm, $2.75 to $4.95.

Then we saw cheese assortments and beautiful boxes filled with imported chocolates. In the Dutch tradition children love to find some chocolate in their stockings and Bon Appetit has a train, 65 cents, and a giant Kiss, $2.75. Or you might tempt them now with an advent calendar that has a chocolate hidden behind each window, Santa's ribbon candy. Polly's also has the Allemande Panettone, Continental's Dobosh torte, a seven layer cake seasoned with rum, $4.25; and marzipan pigs.

Candy novelties are fun as well as delicious. You could decorate a tree with foil covered chocolate bells, stars, halls or santas, and finish it off with tiny candy canes (2 for a nickel) or wrap a huge $2 cane for under the tree.

Into an 18 or older stocking, slip in some cocktail sticks with a martini or daiquiri taste, $1.50, or a maple sugar
Jack and Jill, 50 cents.

Then if you are providing Christmas dinner, hang a Santa pinata over the children's table which you have filled with prizes and wrapped candies. A pinata provides a never-to-be forgotten thrill, but Polly tells us that she has already sold many of her original 100.

of settings, lights and the lack. Another perfect gift is a of sound, that has all been watch, and Mr. Kalmus has a changed with Kodak's new wide choice. For the fashion-

Ektasound 130 at the Princeton Shutterbug on Palmer Square.

This new camera does not require special lighting, has an automatic meter, and, most important, tapes the movement and sound all on one easy cartridge. For just under $200, there is a gift set that includes the camera, film, microphone and batteries.

During a quiet moment last week, Frederick Bensco of Princeton Shutterbug, chose some heavy bright red paper and wrapped this year's hot item—Kodak's hip pocket instamatic camera 110. All set to go for under $25, the box includes film, magicube, and a flash extender that eliminates those awful red dots in people's eyes.

The store is also very pleased with Bessler's new two-step, two-minute color print process that is a boon to home-developers who have previously limited themselves to black and white prints.

While all the components can be purchased individually, for Christmas there will be a special kit with a filter, calculator, chemistry, paper and processor to get you started, about $70.

In Small Boxes. While the lady of the house might love cameras, chances are she would prefer to find under the tree a small box suggesting jewelry. H. R. Kalmus, Chambers Street, has a nice selection of reasonably priced rings, earrings, bracelets and other items.

We liked a 14 kt. road runner pin with a ruby eye, $38; a textured gold scotty dog with a sapphire collar and ruby eye, $70; and a bracelet with an antique victorian look, 18 kt gold overlay with pearls and amethysts on the top, $47.50.

Seldom have we seen a larger display of pierced earrings from tiny gold ship's wheels, $10.50, to gold flowers with diamond centers, $67.50.

This is an easy gift since the seems to have enough earrings.

watch, and Mr. Kalmus has a new wide choice. For the fashion-

$110, and others with stones such as Lapis or Tiger's Eye are $115. However, we also saw a thin choker, $7.50, with a pretty cross hung on it, $75. Other sterling silver pieces included pierced earrings of three intertwined circles, $8.50, and a handsome square bangle bracelet, plain $33 and textured $35.

We also liked the adorable gold filled animal pins which LaVake's has very considerably included for the youngster who wants some jewelry. We saw turtles, bears, birds and many with stones or scarabs, $8-$15.

Everyone has at least one relative or friend for whom he spends hours deciding on an appropriate gift. Here are some thoughts we've garnered from various stores to help you choose.

Princeton Gift Shop has hand-painted papier mache boxes, frames and novelties from Kashmir. The animal and flower designs are exquisite, reminiscent of Persian miniature painting. This lovely collection includes a tape measure, $6; 5 X 7 frame, $22; an egg for dresser pins, $13; and a match set, $8.50.

Another import we greatly admired were the woven straw boxes from Russia. The designs have been laquered and the boxes lined with silk, $7 and up. The store also has English gallery trays with glass covered prints of birds or flowers, incite desk accessories, and Reuge music boxes with a magnificent tone, $5 to $200.

Mr. Cassidy of the Silver Shop, Palmer Square, has recently returned from England with many fascinating old serving pieces. Our favorite, and most appropriate for this season, is the graceful long-handled stuffing spoon, circa 1786, $98.

He also showed us a Sheffield mustard pot with a blue liner, circa 1880, $41; a gravy ladle by Robert Cruickshank, 1799, $64; and a George III berry spoon made in London in 1801 by George Smith and Thomas Hayter, $55.

For a lady's dresser, the Silver Shop has an old perfume bottle with a silver overlay, a crystal powder box with a silver top, $20, and a five-piece hammered silver dresser set, $160.

Over in Hopewell, at the Stained Glass Studio, Railroad Place, there are beautifully hand-crafted mirrors and lamps. The winter scene mirror is new and most effective with pieces of mirror separating the leaded winter trees, white snow and pale sky, $35.

Smaller mirrors are here too, such as a circular one bordered with pale green and blue stained glass, $12. We also liked a cathedral glass fly with a curved body who hangs from a loop on his back, $30, and a light box made of orange and red opalescent stained glass, $25.

La Vake's, of course, has much more than the lovely silver already mentioned. Our favorites were a Chinese red and gold silent butler, $13; a Limoges white mustard pot with a delicate flower design, $36; and a Malcom Moran sculpture of two skaters—the girl with a teddy bear and the boy with a hockey stick, $260.

And, if your friend follows his horoscope, we suggest a zodiac paperweight. LaVake's has the signs embedded in a clear egg, $13.50, or in an intriguing free-form crystal rock, $14.

Brought to you
By John Bernard

Here's an interesting sports question for you ... In the 1955 Harvard-Yale football game, a Harvard player caught a touchdown pass for Harvard's only TD in a 21-7 loss ... Today the boy who caught that pass is far more famous throughout the country in another field ... Can you guess who he is ... Answer is Senator Teddy Kennedy ... He played varsity football at Harvard in the 1954 and '55 seasons.

Can you imagine two teams in the same league having the same nickname ... That situation, oddly enough, exists in the Canadian Football League where two of the teams are the Ottawa Rough Riders and the Saskatchewan Rough Riders.

Oddly enough, a National Football League team once changed coaches right in the middle of a game! ...

That's how the famous coach, Jimmy Conzelman, got his first coaching job ... This odd occurrence happened when he was a player during the NFL season of 1921, and during one game he was in a huddle when a substitute came running in and told Conzelman that the coach on the bench and the owner of the team just had a fight ... The owner fired the coach on the spot and appointed Conzelman who thus became the only football coach in history appointed while a game was in progress.

I bet you didn't know that we sell auto, homeowners and life insurance as well as medical insurance.

Tigers, Last in 1973 Ivy Race, Expected To Find Tough Climb to Place Near Top

TOPPING OFF A FINE RECORD: When spilt end Bill Skinner made this finger-tip grab of a 34-yard scoring pass in the third quarter of Saturday's Dartmouth game, it raised his record-breaking career total of receptions to 75 -- 21 more than the old mark that George Sella had set from 1947-49.

SPORTS in Princeton

Ever since the Brooklyn Dodgers suffered through near-misses in the days when the National League's most colorful franchise was based in Flatbush, the cry "Wait 'til next year" has been the legendary pillar of hope for those who are sure the immediate future will be better. After Princeton's football team left the field Saturday, having made its best offensive showing in an Ivy game this season and aware that it had rallied strongly in the first half against the eventual 1973 champions, there was a natural tendency to feel that 1974 may bring a dramatic upturn in Tiger fortunes. The hope-and-belief-is that the past season's travail, the bitter experience gained by those who will return next year, will be the foundation on which a contending team wearing Orange and Black will be built.

A cold appraisal indicates that this will in all probability not take place within the next 12 months. While it does require a modicum of wishful thinking, in view of the unprecedented depths to which Princeton football has sunk, to feel that the Tigers will eventually return to the point where they at least have a shot at the Ivy crown on the last day of the season, logic dictates that this will indeed occur. But there are far too many problems to solve, too many gaps in the ability of the available personnel, to think that one year of painful learning in the new regime will somehow be followed by a return to normalcy—which in the Princeton viewpoint has to be a winning percentage considerably above .500.

Of the returning manpower on the seven Ivy League campuses and the strength that next year's sophomores will provide, the only opponent that the Tigers are likely to defeat in 1974 is Columbia. Of their two non-league foes, they can at the moment logically expect to top Colgate again—the lone foe which kept them from going 0-9 in 1973.

The Class of 1977 was not impressive. After an opening loss to Rutgers, the freshmen had a chance to complete a fine season when they edged the Navy Plebes and Penn by a touchdown each and throttled Columbia, 55 to 14.

Thereafter, however, they blew a 14-point lead in the closing minutes of the final period to Harvard, losing by a point, and gave a miserable performance in dropping a 17-8 decision to Yale. In the latter contest, they fumbled a dozen times, losing nine of them, and yet had so little scoring punch that despite gaining nearly 400 yards and recovering six Yale freshman fumbles, they managed only a lone TD.

Quarterback the Key. Much of the question of just how great a degree of improvement Princeton can achieve next fall depends on the extent that sophomore Ron Beible can improve at quarterback. With the experience he gained under constant stress, he will inevitably be better, but both he and Princeton have a problem that may not be solved.

The top Ivy teams this season boasted offenses which unveiled a variety of option plays built around a solid ground game that, more often than not, featured a quarterback who could run. Tom Snickenberger at Dartmouth, Jim Stoeckel of Harvard and Tom Doyle of Yale are the best examples.

Whether he might have been a capable ball carrier is hard to determine, but Beible's knife-scarred knees make him a good deal of a Joe Namath (whose number 12 he wears) as far as running with the ball is concerned. The number of times he was sacked while trying to pass were a factor, of course, but on the season he lost 53 yards in the role of a ball carrier, and this lack of balance with his superior passing ability will bother the Tigers in the two years he will continue to direct their attack.

The job was his by the time the season began, and neither of the two leading quarterbacks in the Class of 1977 is at all likely to supplant him. Jim Flynn and Fred Dalzell, rarely used this year, are seniors, and Dave Mistretta, a junior, was finally converted to running back and is unlikely to be recycled into a quarterback next year.

Other Positions Weak. The problem is, of course, compounded by various deficiencies elsewhere. Just two running backs—Walt Snickenberger and Bob Reid—saw 95 percent of the action in the final half of the season, a razor-thin depth that could by itself keep the Tigers in last place again next season if one or both of them is injured. Cornell, for example, fell from a contender's spot almost entirely because its two top ball carriers, Dan Malone, and Don Fanelli, were hurt.

most of the year. There is a lack of top-grade interior linemen. The Tigers' pass rush was adequate, partially because of injuries to key players such as tackle Ken Beytin, who never played in 100 percent condition this fall and missed the last five games entirely with a nerve problem in his neck.

The defense was overburdened in most games; when it did have a good afternoon, as at Cambridge, the offense made so many mistakes that constant pressure on the defense allowed a chance for a major upset to slip away.

The kicking game was weaker than at any time within memory. Not only was the punting itself unusually weak, but three wretched center snaps cost as many touchdowns, plus a safety, at vital moments against Harvard and Dartmouth.

All of this is to say that the sheer volume of what must be corrected and improved appears to be greater than the coaching and playing personnel can remedy in the short time from late August to November 23 next year. Even if the offense, with Beible, Reid and Snickenberger all returning, improves its scoring output from this year's wholly inadequate 14-points-per-game average, there is no sign that the defense will take charge. And in the long run—the need for a capable quarterback notwithstanding—it is only a good defense that will lead the Tigers back to respectability.

At year's end, there was no need to find a scapegoat, to declare the choice of Bob Casciola and his largely rebuilt coaching staff an inept decision. It was not. In due time, they will still be here when Princeton football has returned to the levels which make playing it and watching it enjoyable, but the odds are against that happening next fall.

MISTAKES AGAIN COSTLY

In 42-24 loss to Dartmouth. As it had in virtually every game this season, Princeton was guilty of serious errors Saturday that were directly responsible for opposition touchdowns. To no one's surprise, the 42-24 trouncing the Tigers suffered wrapped up the Ivy Championship for Dartmouth, the victors' point total representing the highest

Dartmouth, Yale Best Bets for '74

The Ivy race in 1974? off this year's finish and next year's personnel, it should be a one-two battle between defending champion Dartmouth and Yale, with the other two 1973 first division teams, Penn and Harvard, the best bets as challengers. There is always, however, fog potential in the crystal ball: the race that has just ended was figured to go to Yale, with Cornell a strong second choice to take it all.

The two best freshman teams among the Ivies were Dartmouth and Yale, which won a majority of their games and tied each other, 20-20. Princeton and Harvard will find good personnel coming to their varsities; Penn, too, has something going for it, Brown and Columbia somewhat less so.

number they have ever posted in 53 games against Princeton. A Dartmouth touchdown followed almost immediately after each of these Princeton miscues:

A partially blocked Princeton punt went four yards beyond the line of scrimmage, the Green getting position at midfield instead of somewhere inside its own 20, covering the distance in ten plays to take a lead it never lost.

After a fine second-quarter rally by the Tigers cut the visitors' margin to 14-11, a screen pass thrown well back of the line of scrimmage resulted in a fumble recovered by Dartmouth on the Princeton 4. Two plays later, it was 21-11, and the Green began to break the game open.

Less than two minutes later, the center snap on a punt skidded between the kicker's legs, Dartmouth recovered on the Princeton 8 and got a touchdown on the ensuing pitchout to Rick Klupchak.

The Tigers' retaliation (on a 34-yard scoring pass to split end Bill Skinner) was offset when Beible threw the ball away with a Dartmouth tackler draped over him. The resultant interception gave the Green its final TD three plays later.

Able to score 24 points—some 80 percent more than it had in six previous Ivy games—Princeton could do little more than scare the Green briefly, because in its final game of the year, it still could not master the basics of avoiding fumbles, interceptions and blocked kicks. In the game that decided the Ivy League championship, the Tigers fumbled three times, lost all three, suffered one interception, one blocked kick and one that never got off at all. Dartmouth never fumbled, had two passes picked off but ran into no problems from either turnover.

The Snickenberger brothers both had good days in their first appearance on opposing teams. As the Dartmouth quarterback, Tom was responsible for 122 yards and one touchdown. Walt was credited with 124 yards rushing—all but 22 of them in the first half and scored once for the Tigers.

More often than not throughout the decade of the '60s, the two teams on the field Saturday battled for first place in the Ivy standings. Princeton won outright in 1964 and tied for the title with Dartmouth and Harvard in '66 and with Dartmouth and Yale in '69. In addition to sharing first place in those two years, the Green held the championship alone in 1962 and again in 1965.

In the present decade, however, all that has changed. In winning all four games played with Princeton since 1970, the Green has outscored the Tigers, 148 to 45, and it is difficult to see any form reversal when the teams meet next—as early as October 12, 1974, at Hanover.

Five teams have holdover quarterbacks: Tom Snickenberger at Dartmouth, Tom Doyle at Yale, Marty Vaughn at Penn, Pete Beatrice at Brown and Ron Beible at Princeton. Yale and Dartmouth have an edge on the other six because a healthy number of their defensive platoons return, and they finished one-two in this category in 1973.

Looking months ahead, Dartmouth, Yale, Penn and Brown all figure to be as good or better than they have been this season, while Harvard may have trouble finishing as well as 5-2 and Cornell is likely to remain in second division. Columbia, which beat only Princeton and is about to undergo a coaching change, remains in deep trouble. So do the Tigers.

TIGERS FACE FORDHAM

In First Intercollegiate Game. A one-sided victor last week in an exhibition contest, Princeton's basketball team will open the formal portion of its schedule Saturday against Fordham in New York.

The Rams are not among the top teams in the metropolitan area this year but will furnish a good measuring stick for the Tigers' capabilities. Coach Pete Carril's team has another trip, to Annapolis on Wednesday for its annual game with the Navy, before playing its home opener Saturday, December 8, against well-regarded Villanova.

If Carril syays with the Five players who took the court for the exhibition game with Athletes in Action, he will use Captain Andy Rimol at center, senior Joe Vavricka and sophomore Barnes Hauptfuhner as forwards and Armond Hill and Al Burton in the back court. Later, he substituted freely, eventually clearing the bench as the Tigers had little trouble in winning, 82 to 62.

To no one's surprise, junior Brien O'Neill turned in a top performance, scoring 10 points even though he did not start. His presence in a reserve capacity, together with three or four others who can provide more than adequate relief, is a strong point for this year's squad.

Rimol, Vavricka Are High. Rimol and Vavricka both accounted for 16 points, Hill matching O'Neill's total of 10.

to give the Tigers four in double figures. Ten of the 12 players scored, so that if anything close to this kind of balance persists, it will be a good sign for the future. The visitors, former college players who work throughout the year for the Campus Crusade for Christ International, were short two of their regulars. Although they had a three-point lead midway through the first half, they did not provide much of a test and have won only one of the six games they have played to date.

After some close going in the first ten minutes, the home team ran up a 20 to 2 margin before the half ended and took a 42-27 lead into the dressing room. Hill's guidance in the backcourt was steady, and he finished the night with a five-for-seven performance, getting his coach's approval for "taking his shot when he had one." It was all Princeton in the second half, the Tigers at one time leading by 31 before settling for 20. They had a 42-27 edge in rebounding, John Berger grabbing seven to pace the victors.

Wood Ends 12 Years as PHS Football Coach

Dick Wood, head coach of the Princeton High School football team since 1962 and chief assistant under Joe Jingoli for 16 years, handed in his letter of resignation Monday to athletic director Frank Francisco.

Wood said that he had made the decision last August that this would be his last season. "It's got to come some time," said the popular coach, who will be 60 next month. "I've liked it and enjoyed it," but he added that he found it harder to get up physically and emotionally for each new campaign.

Francisco reported that no successor has been named. He explained that whenever a coaching vacancy arises, it is advertised within the school system and there is a waiting period of ten days before applications are closed.

In addition, Francisco commented that there was a possibility that someone from outside the Princeton system might apply for the position, but he termed the likelihood "remote." The prime candidate, he said, is Jim Beachell, Wood's chief assistant and head of the defense for the past five years.

Beachell Wood's Choice. As he stepped down, Wood recommended that Beachell, who he coached as a player, be named to succeed him. Beachell was quarterback of the 1964 PHS team that won six, lost two and tied one.

Francisco, just named athletic director a month ago, and a member of Wood's football staff for the past six years, donned his AD hat to remark, "Princeton is losing an awful lot, a lot more than just a football coach. He's just a fantastic man."

Virtually all of Wood's adult life has been associated with football. He started his career in 1936 as an assistant, and before that there were four years at Trenton State as a player and four at Princeton High.

Although he was never very big, Wood played guard and was a standout performer. He was captain of the 1929 PHS team his senior year. "You might say with the exception of a few war years, I've been in football every year since 1929," Wood observed.

Typically, Wood considered the team first in making his decision. "I don't feel I can do the job continually the way I want to do it; I feel it's time somebody else had a chance."

"The job was demanding a lot of work all year," he continued. "It was tougher to do than I thought and I wouldn't want to do it any less than I had been." And since the program for next year will soon be underway, Wood felt that he should step down now so his successor would have free rein to do things his way.

In addition, the Mercer County League will be divided into two divisions next year, PHS will be playing more schools its size such as Lawrence, Hightstown, West Windsor and St. Anthony and again Wood felt it was a natural division between eras and a good time to end his long career.

From 1946 to 1961 Wood was assistant to Jingoli. In the 12 years he was coach, his teams, usually playing against larger schools in Mercer County, won more than they lost. His best seasons were in 1966 and 1967, when he had consecutive 7-2 records. His worst was in 1971, a season marked by racial strife on the team. Princeton lost all eight games that year. In his last two years, PHS finished with 5-4 records.

PORTRAIT OF A COACH
Dick Wood Remembered. What kind of a person is Dick Wood, who resigned this week after 12 years as coach of the Princeton High School football team?

His career spanned 33 years. His won-lost record speaks for itself. Of the major sports at PHS—football, basketball, baseball and track—only in football was PHS able to enjoy an edge against the larger Mercer County schools. "Over the years we were fairly competitive in football," was Wood's own modest appraisal.

Statistics. But what about the man? Ask anyone who knew or worked with him and all are quick to agree that Wood was a fine coach but all, almost in the same breath, quickly go on to praise Wood, the man.

"He was a real class guy," said Joe Jingoli, Wood's predecessor who coached the Little Tigers from 1946-61 and under whom Wood served all those years. "He was a fine gentleman. If you had a son playing ball, Dick is the one you would want to have coaching him. He's that kind of man."

"I consider him one of the finest coaches I've played under—and I've played for quite a few," stated Jim Beachell, Wood's assistant for the past five years and a former PHS player.

"A fine individual, a sound human being," said Beachell of Wood, singling out his high moral standards. "I found in many cases where a lot of coaches would try something underhanded, Dick just wouldn't allow it," he recalled.

Delegated Responsibility. In contrast to coaches who want to control every phase of the game, Wood, Beachell said, gave him full responsibility for the defense the first year he served under him. Beachell responded with some fine defensive teams and "I feel it's been due to the trust he had in me," he said.

Wood liked to win—there is a great deal of Vince Lombardi in him—but more important to him was the value of football to young boys. He spent many hours talking football to prospects in the middle schools.

In a pamphlet prepared for them he described football as

Schalch 1974 Captain

Tom Schalch, a 6-foot-4, 230-pound defensive tackle from Pasadena, Texas, has been elected captain of the 1974 Princeton football team.

Leading the team in solo tackles with 59, Schalch emerged as the bulwark of the defensive line after an injury forced senior Ken Beytin to the sidelines. "His ability to read the opposing blockers is what gets him to the ball carrier so often," said Coach Bob Casciola.

An all-district center in high school, Schalch started at tackle for the 1971 freshmen, and was a swing tackle behind Beytin and All-East selection Carl Barisich in 1972. In the Brown game last year Schalch blocked a punt on a play that proved to be the turning point in Princeton's favor.

"basically a morale game—a game played first with the heart and mind...there is no compromise with loyalty." He saw the sport as a "means of exposing young men directly to such elements as courage, perseverance...competition that is decided not at the end of a grading period but right now."

In his pre-season discussions of each team, Wood made it a point to see that virtually every boy was named.

A Man of Principle. He was a fighter. Three years ago when the team was hit by racial strife, there was pressure on Wood to step down. He refused to bow out. He stayed on and won his point for coaches' control of team discipline. On the field, whenever he felt he was the victim of a bad call, he would stand out on the field and yell, "Mr. Official!"

Wood won few of those arguments but he never let himself be ignored when he had a point to make. It wouldn't be up to his standards to let it pass.

Above all, a gentleman. His strongest expletive was "Shoot!" When he used it, one knew he was unhappy about something. He never chewed a player out in public, no matter how serious the mistake.

After the most heart-breaking upset—and like every coach he suffered through his share—with the disappointment still etched clearly on his face, Wood would answer every reporter's post-game question. Sometimes the voice was almost inaudible but he answered straight-forward, no brushoffs. He never complained about inaccuracies in reporting or any criticism of his coaching decisions.

He never refused to shake a winning coach's hand—unlike a coach of a county school who refused to shake hands with Wood for three years—leaving him standing in the middle of the field. Such actions hurt him because it was so foreign to his own nature. This season Wood's team was upset by the same coach's team and Wood was the first to meet him and congratulate him. "It's the first he's spoken to me in three years," he said.

When he announced this week that he was ending his coaching career, he said he did so because he couldn't perform up to the level he had in the past. And if Dick Wood couldn't give it 100 percent, then by his own standards it was time to step down.

"Dick Wood deserves all the honors and accolades that will surely come his way. He will be missed."

HOCKEY TEAM HOPEFUL. Of Reaching .500 Mark. Princeton's hockey team, scheduled to open its season this Wednesday night at 8 in Baker Rink against a strong

St. Lawrence sextet, has set a goal for itself of playing .500 hockey—a feat that has eluded the Orange and Black since 1968. The Tigers were 5-18 last winter, and have been as low as 1-22 in the current decade, figures which played a part in the unusual personnel switch that saw last year's freshman coach, Jack Semmler, trade positions with Bill Quackenbush, who directed varsity fortunes for the past six years and will now be in charge of the freshmen.

Semmler understandably isn't forecasting a spectacular upswing in Princeton hockey fortunes, merely going on record that this year's Tigers "will be more competitive than last season's team. Everyone knows his position on the team and what he has to do to help us win," he said.

On defense, Princeton will have sophomore Al Rosner and junior Jim Damberger as one left-right tandem, while junior Roy Hopper and sophomore Paul Dionne will form the other. Senior Phil Robinson will start in goal for Princeton, backed up by sophomore Robin Rollefstad.

The earliest opening on record in the Ivy League will find Princeton heading for Providence Saturday to face Brown. The Bruins are not a power in the seven-team circuit, but trimming them on their own ice is a rare accomplishment for the Tigers.

PHS FIVE HUNTING
Experience in Short Supply.
Along with all the other shortages, Princeton High School basketball coach Marvin Trotman finds that he has to contend with yet another: a shortage of experienced basketball players. Trotman, starting his second full year as head coach, loses four of five iron starters from a team that had often been described as the best to represent PHS in the past 20 years. The Little Tigers in 1972-73 won 18 of 24 games.

Sadly, how far that superb quintet comprised of Tony Bailey, Leon Robinson, Larry Miller, Gil Spencer and Bobby King would have progressed in the annual NJSIAA state tournament had to remain conjecture because it was banned for a year from tournament play as a consequence of a near-riot between fans following the PHS-Ewing game in Ewing. Trotman himself was censured by the NJSIAA's executive committee.

"That memorable team and unhappy ending are now history. What's the story on this year's team?"

"There isn't any," smiled Trotman. "I lost everybody but one; that's the story."

"How do you replace a guy like Bailey?" asked Trotman, knowing that the answer is, you can't. Bailey, the Little Tigers' captain and floor leader, on everyone's all-area first team last year and an extraordinary shotmaker, is now playing for Elizabeth City College in North Carolina--Trotman's own alma mater.

Or a steady performer like Spencer, now playing at Denison, Ohio, or Miller who was so outstanding defensively under the boards for the Blue and White? Especially when they played perhaps 95 percent of the time.

King Lone Returnee. The only one back is King, a 6'3" forward. Although one might say that, mathematically, Trotman has only a 1-in-5 chance of matching last year's heights, King is more than one-fifth.

With Bailey, he provided the scoring power for PHS last year. A streak shooter, King broke open several contests with his exceptional ability to put the ball in the basket. In Princeton's last four games, King hit for 24-25-14-23 points. But the burden on him this fall will be tremendous, and Trotman is quick to recognize it.

"There will be a lot of pressure on him to carry the team," Trotman acknowledged. "It will be real, real tough."

King will be co-captain of the team together with 5-11 Craig Robinson, who saw brief action last year. His top scoring effort was four points.

High on the list of those who are likely to be carried on Trotman's 13-member varsity squad are seniors Ted Brown (6-2), Steve Towns (5-10) and Larry Copper (5-11). Juniors include Pete Watson (6-2), Randy Bullock (6-0) Roland Alexander (5-10) and Joe Czechowski (5-10). Shawn Craig (5-11) is a strong sophomore contender.

Robinson is a guard, King will alternate between guard and forward and Watson is the likely starting center. Brown will do a lot of playing commented Trotman but after that everything is up for grabs.

Trotman is being assisted by Ed Beacham, former assistant Princeton Recreation Director, and now a physical education teacher in the Princeton school system and by Dick Phebus. Beacham will coach the freshman there is a champion and in the Christmas Tournament at Bristol, Dec. 26-27. It will be the Little Tiger's first appearance in both events

As for PHS, Trotman said that his team will stay with the running, pressing attack it used last year. "We'll try to do some things, pick and roll, slow it down if we have to," he said. "A lot will depend on what the other team does."

By whatever name - gestalt-encounter, consciousness-raising sessions, rap groups, sensitivity training, group therapy, or identity studies - they are springing up in large numbers and varied forms. They are sponsored by women's organizations, churches, social workers, professional psychologists and private individuals. No interruptions of any sort are allowed until each person has spoken either one or two times. A rap group, according to a consensus of sources, is an unstructured encounter group - a free-for-all.

Many other species of encounter groups exist.

The Princeton Association for Human Resources, of which Dr. Blank is a member, sponsors occasional marathons. "It's a tremendous sub-group," he says. "You meet in a group of 12-14 people for an extended period of time, perhaps 20 hours broken by one night's sleep."

It accelerates things that might happen slowly in a series of weekly meetings. It can be very dramatic.

Dr. Blank's wife, Bernice, leads groups based on what she calls the "theme-centered interaction method." The theme for one recent group was "the
